SC Voter Photo ID Campaign Toolkit

This toolkit is to help volunteers gather statements of South Carolina voters at risk of being disenfranchised by the new photo ID law.

These statements will be submitted to the US Justice Department, which has 60 days to review the new law to rule whether it violates civil rights. The statements may also be used as affidavits, should the case go to federal court.

To find people to interview, contact local senior facilities and churches, and post the flyer and fact sheet in the back of this toolkit, which also can be downloaded at scpronet.com.

To volunteer to conduct interviews, contact the SC Progressive Network so we can track who is doing what so our campaign can be its most efficient. Reach us at 803-808-3384 or network@scpronet.com.

Instructions for gathering SC voter photo ID comments

On May 18, 2011, the governor signed a law that requires a state-issued photo ID, passport, or military ID to vote. Because of our state's history of discrimination against black voters, all changes to voting laws must be approved by the US Dept. of Justice (DOJ), a provision of the 1964 Voting Rights Act.

DOJ has 60 days to consider evidence as to the law's impact on minority voters. The Voting Rights Act mandates that laws do not "have the purpose and will not have the effect of denying or abridging the right to vote on account of race or color." These comments will be submitted to DOJ — and possibly federal court — to show that many people of color in South Carolina will not be able to vote if this law is approved.

To meet DOJ's 60-day deadline, we are targeting minority, registered voters who don't have a birth certificate, or who don't have one in their current name. We will, however, take comments from citizens regardless of their race.

To get a photo ID, the SC Department of Motor Vehicles (DMV) requires a birth certificate, noting that: "If name has changed since birth, applicant must present all legal documents (adoption records, marriage certificate or license issued by state/county records office, certificate of naturalization, and court-ordered name change) supporting all name changes from the name which appears on the birth certificate or proof of identity to the present."

More than 178,000 registered SC voters do not have a photo ID. Citizens born at home may have never had a birth certificate. They must also have proof of residency and a Social Security number (See attachment A). To get a birth certificate requires a state- or federal- issued photo ID in the person's current name. The Department of Health and Environmental Control (DHEC) requires a photo ID to get a copy of a birth certificate. (See attachment B).

DHEC advises that you can get a birth certificate through VitalCheck.com, a private service that charges a fee and waives the photo ID requirement if you can answer a quiz about your life. The on-line service requires the applicant to have an e-mail account and telephone, and only accepts major credit cards. Commenters should document their experience and expenses if they attempted to get a birth certificate through VitalCheck.

While comments to DOJ do not have to be notarized, if the law is challenged in federal court sworn and notarized statements will be required. As such, please have the statements you gather notarized.

1. If you want to conduct interviews, call the Progressive Network so we can track what volunteers are doing.

2. If you don't want to do the interview but know of somewone who cannot meet the photo ID law requirements, provide their contact information and we will assign an interviewer.

3. This is a non-partisan project.

4. This is a volunteer effort. Reimbursement for expenses must be approved in advance.

5. All statements must be written by the person commenting, or dictated to a witness or notary.

6. If the commenter does not have valid ID and is not known to the notary, the witness must know the commenter.

7. All statements must include the DOJ submission number (contact the Network for the number), date, required signatures and be notarized.

8. Citizens lacking DMV photo ID and a DHEC birth certificate should attempt to obtain both prior to making their comments. Call and request these documents, and report the results:
- DMV: 803-896-5000
- DHEC Vital Records: 803-898-3630

HOLD IT! WHO SAID YOU COULD VOTE?

South Carolina just passed the nation's most restrictive voter photo ID law.

If you don't have a passport, military ID or state-issued photo ID, you will not be allowed to vote!

Because a birth certificate is required to get a photo ID, thousands of registered SC voters are at risk of being disenfranchised. Especially vulnerable are seniors and the poor.

The SC Progressive Network is gathering affidavits of voters facing problems because of the new requirements. We will forward these stories to the US Justice Dept, which has 60 days to review the law.

Help us find voters with no photo ID or birth certificate so we can document their difficulties and expenses in getting a photo ID.

Contact the SC Progressive Network

803-808-3384 or network@scpronet.com

See www.scpronet.com for background on the photo ID law and how you can help fight it.

On May 18, 2011, Gov. Haley signed the nation's most restrictive voter photo ID law.

Now, if you don't have a photo ID card issued by the state of South Carolina, a passport or a military ID, you will not be allowed to vote in person.

The law was passed even though there is no evidence of voter ID fraud in South Carolina. Opponents of the law say it is an attempt at voter suppression.

Voters without one of three types of photo ID will vote using a "provisional ballot" that will not count unless you produce the required photo ID before the vote is certified (three days after a general election).

You have to have a birth certificate to get a photo ID. The "non-driver" photo IDs are free to anyone over 18 at local DMV offices. You must take a birth certificate, proof of Social Security number and proof of residency (tax notices and utility bills with current address can be used to prove residency).

If you do not have a birth certificate in the name you use, you cannot get a DMV-issued photo ID. If a name has changed since birth, an applicant must present all legal documents (adoption records, marriage certificate or license issued by state/county records office, certificate of naturalization, and court ordered name change) supporting all changes from the name which appears on the birth certificate or proof of identity to the present.

Going to court to correct a name can cost over $1,000 in filing and legal fees.

You must have a photo ID to get a birth certificate. The Dept. of Health and Environmental Control (DHEC) state and county offices can issue a birth certificate for $12. DHEC requires a current state, federal, school or employer photo ID to get a birth certificate.

DHEC refers people to VitalCheck.com, a private on-line service for birth certificates. You have to have a computer, email address, telephone number and one of four major credit cards to use the service for an average cost of $30. You may not have to provide a photo ID if you correctly answer a quiz about your birth history.

Can this law be stopped?

Due to South Carolina's poor history regarding civil rights, all changes in our voting laws must be approved by the US Department of Justice. When SC applies to the DOJ for "pre-clearance" of the law, there is a 60-day comment period before DOJ approves or denies the application.

The SC Election Commission found that 178,175 South Carolinians have voter registration cards but no state-issued photo ID. The top 15 counties, by percentage of voters without photo ID, all have a minority population that historically votes Democrat. In Richland County alone, 18,865 voters do not have state-issued photo IDs.

The SC Progressive Network needs help to gather first-person statements documenting the difficulties and expenses of those attempting to get photo IDs. These affidavits will be submitted to the Justice Department as it considers whether the law disenfranchises minority voters.

Call 803-808-3384 or email network@scpronet.com for details.
